

BenchPress

Manuscript Submission and Tracking Solution

Designed to support your workflow

Adapt to changing editorial practices

Quick and easy author experiences

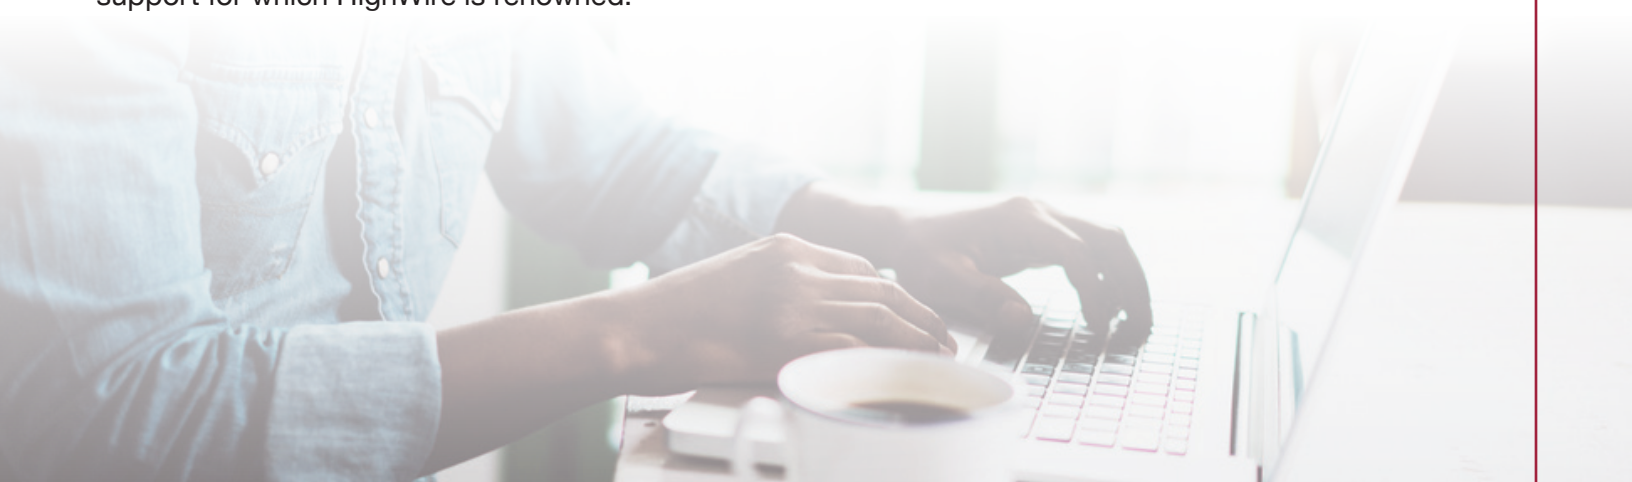

BenchPress is a manuscript management solution designed to fit your unique workflow and adapt to the ever-changing needs of the scholarly community.

Bench Press can support any workflow or publishing model. Our best-in-class configuration enables us to build a system specific to your publication while giving you the flexibility to adjust to changes in your editorial practice or peer review process.

BenchPress delivers a swift, straightforward experience for your authors and reviewers, and an array of helpful tools for editors and publishing staff. Our single sign-in and intuitive interface simplifies submission, and facilitates a rapid and rigorous peer review process. Intelligent admin tools and reporting functionality give editors and publishing staff unrivalled insight into their workflow to help them realize efficiencies and track progress towards their strategic goals.

A LEADER IN DEDICATED SUPPORT AND SERVICE

HighWire is a technology-focused, customer-centric scholarly content service provider. BenchPress' dedicated developers and account managers bring years of experience in peer review support to their work enabling them to provide the consultative support for which HighWire is renowned.

BenchPress

Manuscript Submission and Tracking Solution

OTHER FEATURES INCLUDE:

- Integration with authoring tools
- Drag-and-drop file upload
- Author ORCID registration
- Seamless integration with production systems
- Automated plagiarism screening
- Dryad data deposit
- Article transfer between journals/systems
- Easy APC processing and collection
- Advanced reviewer search

Designed to support your workflow

Adapt to changing editorial practices

Quick and easy author experiences

“For over a decade, Neurology® has partnered with BenchPress to build a premier manuscript submission and peer review system. The BenchPress team consistently furnishes knowledgeable technical support and rapid response times, and has provided exceptional guidance when we’ve operationalized new initiatives.”

Patricia Baskin,
Executive Editor
Neurology® Journals, American Academy of Neurology